

Excellent results for our schools in the engineering school rankings by L'Étudiant and Usine Nouvelle!

The annual rankings of private and public engineering schools by l'Étudiant and Usine Nouvelle were published on February 11, 2020. Several IMT schools' rankings have improved compared to 2019 in both lists. Télécom Paris has entered the top three in the l'Étudiant ranking, at third place. The strongest progression goes to IMT Atlantique, which has moved up 11 places in the Usine Nouvelle ranking and is now in seventh place.

Both rankings are based on public and certified data from the Engineering Qualifications Board.

L'Étudiant

167 schools were evaluated according to the following criteria: academic excellence, international perspective, corporate relationships, and opening to new audiences.

The top three of the ranking have been shaken up with the arrival of Telecom Paris in third place, held by Ecole des Ponts in 2019.

- 3rd Télécom Paris (4th in 2019)
- 9th IMT Atlantique (10th in 2019)

Institut Mines-Télécom positions itself as a National Institute of Technology. It gives priority to the ranking of its schools in order to develop their reputation and attractiveness, which are key factors for recruitment. This strategy, which contributes to the overall reputation and attractiveness of IMT, also benefits all of its schools.
