

Webinar press invitation

In the beginning is trust

On the release of Mark Hunyadi's book "In the beginning is trust", "Values and Policies of Personal Information" chair is pleased to invite you to its 21st conference in the presence of the author who will present his fundamental ideas.

Thursday 11 march 2021 at 9.30 am

Mark Hunyadi, Professor of Moral and Political Philosophy at the Catholic University of Leuven (Belgium) and Associate Professor at the Chair, will explain the principles of his unified theory of trust, and how it applies to the digital world.

This will be followed by a multidisciplinary discussion on law, economics and network security with the co-hosts of the VP-IP Chair: Claire Levallois-Barth, Lecturer of Laws at Télécom Paris, Patrick Waelbroeck, Professor of Economics at Télécom Paris and Maryline Laurent, Professor of Computer Sciences at Télécom SudParis. This unified theory will have to be questioned in the light of practical and current cases, a fortiori in the context of the establishment of the new single market for data at European level and the regulatory framework that is in the process of evolving.

About the Values and Policies of Personal Information Chair

<https://cvpip.wp.imt.fr/accueil/>

The Chair aims to help companies, citizens and public authorities in their reflection on the collection, use and sharing of personal information, i.e. information about individuals (their personal lives, professional activities, digital identities, contributions on social networks etc.) including information collected by the smart objects that surround them (smartphones, smart meters etc.)
